BASQUIAT

This art owner has an interest in the sale of this artwork.

This art piece (purportedly by Jean-Michel Basquiat) is available. The seller suggests a price of about $50 million, but is open to strong offers. This work of art is vaulted in a secure storage facility in NYC (New York City), lacks formal SKR, measurements approximating 69” by 72”.

This artwork is not cited in this artist’s catalogue, as it has been in storage for many years and has not been circulated.

With a strong preliminary bid or LOI (letter of interest), additional details can be provided.

About the artist, Wikpedia states:

"Jean-Michel Basquiat (September 22, 1960 – August 12, 1988) was an American artist who rose to success during the 1980s as part of the Neo-expressionism movement.

Basquiat first achieved notoriety in the late 1970s as part of the graffiti duo SAMO, alongside Al Diaz, writing enigmatic epigrams all over Manhattan, particularly in the cultural hotbed of the Lower East Side where rap, punk, and street art coalesced into early hip-hop music culture. By the early 1980s, his paintings were being exhibited in galleries and museums internationally. At 21, Basquiat became the youngest artist to ever take part in Documenta in Kassel, Germany. At 22, he was one of the youngest to exhibit at the Whitney Biennial in New York. The Whitney Museum of American Art held a retrospective of his artwork in 1992.

Basquiat's art focused on dichotomies such as wealth versus poverty, integration versus segregation, and inner versus outer experience. He appropriated poetry, drawing, and painting, married text and image, incorporating abstraction, figuration, and historical information mixed with contemporary critique. He used social commentary in his paintings as a tool for introspection and for identifying with his experiences in the black community, as well as attacks on power structures and systems of racism. His visual poetics were acutely political and direct in their criticism of colonialism and support for class struggle.

Since his death at the age of 27 in 1988, Basquiat's work has steadily increased in value. In 2017, Untitled, a 1982 painting depicting a black skull with red and yellow rivulets, sold for a record-breaking $110.5 million, becoming one of the most expensive paintings ever purchased."

PAUL CEZANNE
STUDY FOR MADAM CEANNE IN A RED ARMCHAIR

PAUL CÉZANNE "STUDY FOR MADAM CÉZANNE IN A RED ARMCHAIR"

Master Painting Completed 1869 - 1872 A.D
Hand painted Oil Painting on Canvas
An Original Post-Impressionist Painting
19th century French Artist Paul Cézanne 1839 - 1906 A.D.

Paul Cezanne was a French Post-Impressionist painter whose work introduced new modes of representation and influenced avant-garde artistic movements of the early 20th century. Cezanne is said to have formed the bridge between late 19th-century Impressionism and early 20th century Cubism (Wikipedia). Cezanne was born on January 19th, 1839 and died on Oct. 22, 1906.

Cézanne's paintings provoked an incomprehension and ridicule in contemporary art criticism. It was not until the late 1890s that fellow artists such as Camille Pissarro and the art dealer Ambroise Vollard discovered Cézanne's work and were among the first people to buy his paintings. In 1895, Vollard also opened up the first solo exhibition in his Paris gallery, which led to a broader examination of the artist's works. The current record for an artwork by Paul Cézanne stands at $250 Million USD for his painting titled "The Card Players" which was sold in 2011 to the country of Qatar, with a more current value now suggested for "The Card Players" of $340 million

This very colorful oil on canvas painting is one of several in a series, used as an initial "study" for the final version, which is typically called the "studio" final version. Circa 1869 to 1872, the painting style and materials are consistent with other works of art by Cezanne at this time. The provenance depicts an interesting history of this artwork, with substantive verifications.

It measures 18.1 x 15.1 inches without the frame, and with the frame 27' x 24'.

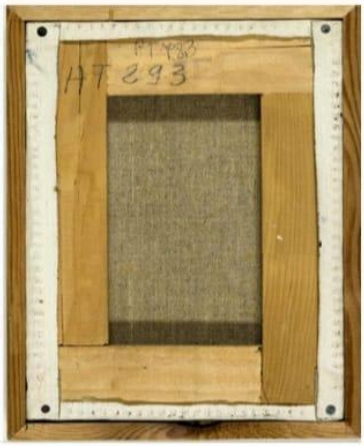

Lighting comparisons, materials used, brushstroke comparisons, comparisons to similar pieces, and documentation all support authenticity.

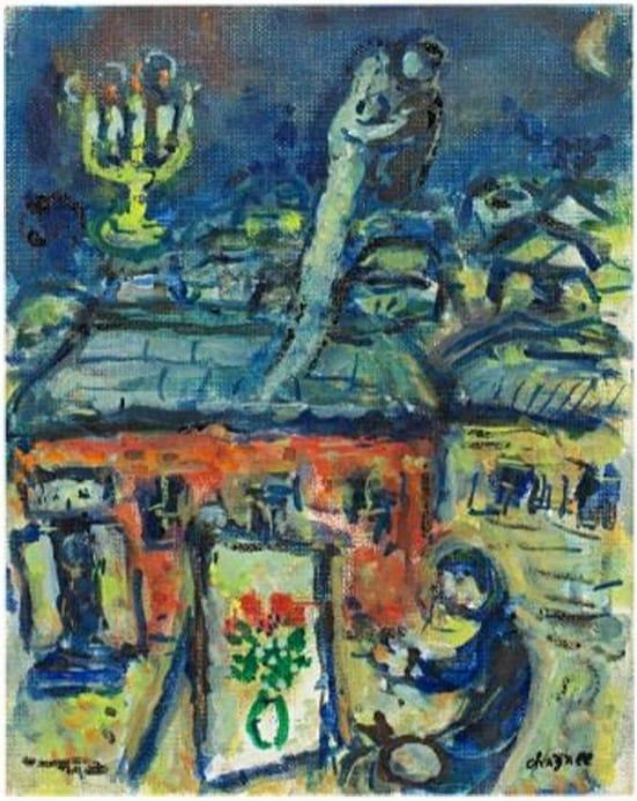

With expression of interest, additional details can be provided.

Currently for sale, these art pieces are recognized in the Chagall catalogue. Individual bids are encouraged, or a bid for all.

About the artist, Wikpedia states:

"Marc Chagall (born Moishe Shagal; 6 July [O.S. 24 June] 1887 – 28 March 1985) was a Belarusian and French artist. An early modernist, he was associated with the École de Paris as well as several major artistic styles and created works in a wide range of artistic formats, including painting, drawings, book illustrations, stained glass, stage sets, ceramics, tapestries and fine art prints.

Chagall was born in 1887, into a Jewish family near Vitebsk, today in Belarus, but at that time in the Pale of Settlement of the Russian Empire. Before World War I, he travelled between Saint Petersburg, Paris, and Berlin. During that period, he created his own mixture and style of modern art, based on his ideas of Eastern European and Jewish folklore. He spent the wartime years in his native Belarus, becoming one of the country's most distinguished artists and a member of the modernist avant-garde, founding the Vitebsk Arts College. He later worked in and near Moscow in difficult conditions during hard times in Russia following the Bolshevik Revolution, before leaving again for Paris in 1923. During World War II, he escaped occupied France to the United States, where he lived in New York City for seven years before returning to France in 1948.

Art critic Robert Hughes referred to Chagall as "the quintessential Jewish artist of the twentieth century". According to art historian Michael J. Lewis, Chagall was considered to be "the last survivor of the first generation of European modernists". For decades, he "had also been respected as the world's pre-eminent Jewish artist". Using the medium of stained glass, he produced windows for the cathedrals of Reims and Metz as well as the Fraumünster in Zürich, windows for the UN and the Art Institute of Chicago and the Jerusalem Windows in Israel. He also did large-scale paintings, including part of the ceiling of the Paris Opéra.

He had two basic reputations, writes Lewis: as a pioneer of modernism and as a major Jewish artist. He experienced modernism's "golden age" in Paris, where "he synthesized the art forms of Cubism, Symbolism, and Fauvism, and the influence of Fauvism gave rise to Surrealism". Yet throughout these phases of his style "he remained most emphatically a Jewish artist, whose work was one long dreamy reverie of life in his native village of Vitebsk." "When Matisse dies", Pablo Picasso remarked in the 1950s, "Chagall will be the only painter left who understands what colour really is"."

EDWARD HOPPER

Edward Hopper's "STUDY FOR SUMMER EVENING" the master painting was completed in 1947 A.D., hand painted oil on canvas, original realist painting, 16 inches by 14 inches.

This piece – an initial version of the final work – suggested to be authentic with careful signature validation and brushstroke comparisons, is available for sale. Edward Hopper was also noted as the "KING OF REALISM," the final rendition includes a man and a woman, depicted in similar background. Current location of the art is in the Caribbean.

The Whitney Museum received the majority of Hopper's numerous works, and this piece can be considered as "extremely rare" as only one of few in private collections, with the record among sales for this artist from a private collection recorded at $91,875,000 USD.

Expressions of interest are welcome.

DANIEL RIDGWAY KNIGHT

This artwork is suggested to be the original study en plein air study painting for Hailing the Ferry by Daniel Ridgway Knight, circa 1888 or earlier. With observed date of "188" the frame covers the last number. This study was then painted again in a final version with numerous color changes and slight variants, typical for artists who often compose the same work on multiple occasions with slight changes.

For sale, valuation target of about $500,000.

CLAUDE MONET STUDY OF IMPRESSION, SUNRISE

Master Painting Completed 1870 A.D
Hand painted Oil Painting on Canvas on Board - Wood
An Original Impressionist Painting
19th century French Artist Claude Monet 1840 - 1926 A.D.

V)…A. CLAUDE MONET, STUDY OF IMPRESSION SUNRISE

Oil on canvass on board, 14.7" * 16.7" with frame, 9.7" * 11.7" without frame.

The owner suggests that this study as a prelude to the extremely valuable final larger version and is an important missing link that provided guidance to the final version via this initial rendering. The owner has meticulously worked to document the authenticity of this piece. Due its age – circa 1870 – the oil paint is acknowledged to be in poor condition.

Further details are available with serious expression of interest or preliminary letter of intent or interest.

V)…B. CLAUDE MONET, UNTITLED

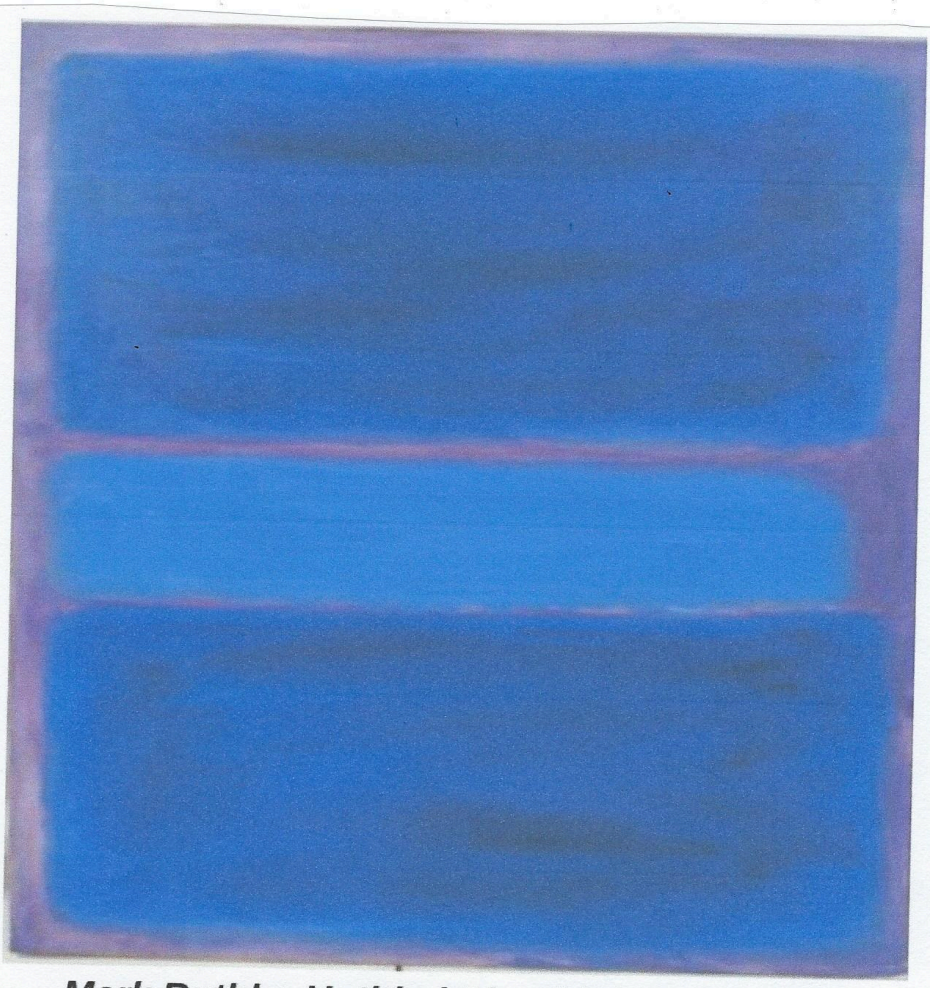

I just sit and look at this beautiful art…the tranquility and serenity are mesmerizing. Oscar-Claude Monet was a French painter and founder of impressionism painting who is seen as a key precursor to modernism, especially in his attempts to paint nature as he perceived it (Wikpedia).

Monet's ambition to document the French countryside led to a method of painting the same scene many times so as to capture the changing of light and the passing of the seasons. Frequently exhibited and successful during his lifetime, Monet's fame and popularity soared in the second half of the 20th century when he became one of the world's most famous painters and a source of inspiration for a burgeoning group of artists.

This art owner has not researched this piece for valuation, so we leave it up to collectors and experts to provide guidance leading to a suitable strike price.

MARK ROTHKO: VI) A)….BLUE OVER BLUE

Mark Rothko Untitled Blue Divided By Blue

Master Painting Completed 1960 A.D
Hand painted Oil Painting on Canvas
An Original Abstract Expressionist Painting
20th century Latvian American Artist Mark Rothko 1903 - 1970 A.D.

MARK ROTHKO: VI B)….WHITE OVER RED

Mark Rothko Untitled White Over Red

Master Painting Completed 1949 A.D
Hand painted Oil Painting on Canvas
An Original Abstract Expressionist Painting
20th century Latvian American Artist Mark Rothko 1903 - 1970 A.D.

MARK ROTHKO

One of the preeminent artists of his generation, Mark Rothko is closely identified with the New York school, a closely allied group of painters that emerged during the 1940s as a new stylistic voice in American art. During a career that spanned five decades, Rothko created a new and impassioned abstract painting style.

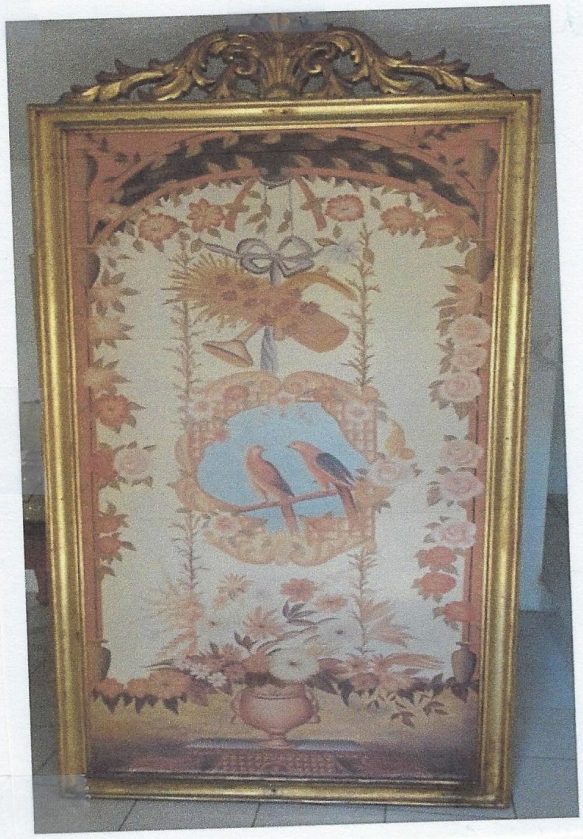

Rothko's works are characterized by rigorous attention to formal elements such as color, shape, balance, depth, composition, and scale. Bold color comparisons with contrasting colors are hallmarks of some of his works.

His rectangular classic abstract paintings are characterized by a simplified use of form, brilliant hues, and broad, thin washes of color.

In Rothko's mature or "classic" period (1951–1970), he consistently painted rectangular regions of color, intended as "dramas" to elicit an emotional response from the viewer (Wikpedia).

The two works depicted herein are aligned with his most recognized unique motif with strongest value.

VII) UNKNOWN ARTIST

This is a large French watercolor painting on canvas, whose full attribution is yet unclear. At 8' 1" * 3'7.5" with frame, and 6'9" * 3.2" without frame.

Style: Royal Rococo watercolor on Canvas.

The work is signed; however the artist is not recognized in this collector's database. The owner suggests attribution to Francois Boucher, with genesis of 1930 to 1950.

A beautiful piece of art that would highlight any room or wall with it's colorful motif.

Reasonable bids or LOI are welcome.
